

MAZDA ANNOUNCES 2015 MAZDA ROAD TO 24 SHOOTOUT RACERS

IRVINE, Calif. (October 20, 2015) – Finalists have been announced for the 2015 Mazda Road to 24 Shootout. This is the single-largest prize in grassroots motorsports. Launched in 2006 as the Mazda Club Racer shootout, the Mazda Road to 24 Shootout has annually promoted one talented club racer into the professional ranks. The $100,000 scholarship package supports a drive in the 2016 Battery Tender Mazda MX-5 Cup. For 2016, this will be in the all-new Global MX-5 Cup car, which went on sale on October 1.

The finalists for the 2015 Mazda Road to 24 Shootout are:

Racer	Hometown	Club/Series
Joshua Allan	La Verne, California	NASA PTD Western States Champion
Joseph Burton-Harris	Sydney, Australia	SCCA Runoffs Formula Mazda Champion
Bruno Carneiro	Riverton, Utah	At Large Nominee
Mark Drennan	San Jose, California	NASA Spec Miata Champion (East & West)
Richard Eklund	Germantown, New York	iRacing Champion
Mason Filippi	Alamo, California	West Coast Teen Mazda Challenge Champion
Glenn McGee	Torrance, California	iRacing Champion
Eric Powell	Orlando, Florida	At Large Nominee
Michai Stephens	Evanston, Illinois	At Large Nominee

John Doonan, director of Mazda Motorsports, noted: “The nine finalists in this shootout are all highly competitive. The fact that the judges identified nine outstanding racers, from the 23 eligible, shows the tremendous depth of talent we are working with today. Mazda is so proud to offer this prize to our grassroots racers and customers; there is simply nothing like it in the world.”

The shootout will take place at Carolina Motorsports Park in Kershaw, SC, on November 8-10. The racers will be tested on the track for their driving skills, and in the garage for their technical understanding of the sport.

The aspiring professional racer who wins the prize will have the best range of skills required to succeed. These skills include speed, consistency, race craft, technical feedback and off-track business, marketing and PR skills.
